Program Description

Graduate students from any discipline at Cornell (with the exception of students pursuing the M.A. degree in Historic Preservation Planning) are eligible to pursue the Graduate Minor in Historic Preservation Planning, provided their degree program allows it. The minor gives students across the university the opportunity to take advantage of the wide variety of historic preservation planning courses offered by the Department of City and Regional Planning.

Upon successful completion of the required classes, the Graduate Minor in Historic Preservation Planning will appear on the students' official Cornell transcript.

Graduate Minor Requirements

- The minor is fulfilled with a minimum of four courses, totaling a minimum of 13 credit hours.
- Students take three required classes and one elective (at the 5000-level or higher).
- A minimum 3.0 GPA is required in the coursework completed for the minor.
- Students must have a member from the Graduate Field of City and Regional Planning faculty appointed as a minor member of their committee.
